ANOTHER WHITE WEEK THREATENS PADUCAH

Rain, Snow and Sleet Result in Much In- convenience and Some Damage.

Today has reminded everyone of the famous sleet storm of a few years ago, when all of the telephones, except thirteen were inoperative, the East Tennessee Telephone company's entire construction work beaten down, and the street car and power company wires also damaged considerably. In that storm the wires were so disarranged that the city was in darkness for two nights and no electric power could be had for two days. Nearly all the roofs on the business houses were damaged, and many of the merchants are fearing a repetition.

The telephones, telegraph and street car companies have been watching the storm with concern. The street car company had two breaks in its trolley lines today, on Broadway, but both were quickly repaired, and all of the companies are holding their men in readiness for any breaks in the wires.

The great danger is from a continuation of the storm. The wires already are standing about all the weight they can and unless the sleet and rain cease much damage is anticipated. Some of the wires have broken four inches long hanging from them and cannot stand much more weight, and if one wire goes down the probabilities are that it will carry many more with it.

The street cars have been running very regularly notwithstanding the conditions and the management is keenly on the lookout for any breaks in its overhead work. The cars are equipped with a design of trolley just for sleet, and have been delayed little on that account.

One of the most significant features of prevailing conditions is the constant breaking of tree limbs, showing that the weight of the ice is increasing. Much of this ice is inevitable, but an examination of the limbs of trees, and the electric wires, shows that they are coated with a heavy insulating layer of ice which, when it becomes heavy enough, breaks wires, poles and the largest of tree limbs.

One thing that will help prevent a repetition of the "White Week," four years ago, however, is the fact that after the great destruction then, heavier poles and wires, and stronger braces were put up by all of the local companies, and the equipment is now better able to withstand a siege of sleet.

The hardest time, however, was experienced by the people who had to be out in the sleet and water. In places down town the sleet was over one's shoe tops. Complaint became so general that Street Inspector Monroe Elliott, to relieve the suffering public, got out the street department gang and shoveled the sleet off the streets and brought the sweeper into play in the business section and swept much of the pulp into the gutters.

The schools experienced considerable falling off in attendance.

This afternoon wires began breaking about the city but no serious damage was reported up to press time. One or two wires near the New Richmond hotel broke and fell across the trolley wire and were burned in two. Little damage was done in this instance and the telephone, telegraph and street car company had its men out working with the wires to prevent trouble in case wires broke. In the country several telephone lines were grounded by falling tree limbs, but as a whole the damage is reported light by both telephone companies.

The street crossings were nicely cleared by early afternoon as far out as Sixth and Broadway from the river, and the conditions generally bettered.

stopping the operation of the mine, but it will be running again by next Tuesday.

It is not known how the fire started, but the greatest damage will be from the delay.

It is not thought that the monetary loss will be over one or two thousand dollars.

The Nortonville mines are among the largest in the state, and among the owners are Messrs. F. M. Fisher, W. F. Paxton and W. H. Kennedy, of Paducah.

Former Sheriff Holland, of Murray, is Acquitted of Murder of Hardy Keys

Henton, Ky., March 23.—The jury in the case of Walter W. Holland, charged with the murder of Hardy Keys at Murray, February 6, 1903, returned a verdict of acquittal at 11 o'clock this morning, after having been out since yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The case has been one of the hardest fought in the annals of Kentucky.

At the first trial, Holland was given five years and a new trial was granted by Judge Eli Brown, of Owensboro, who tried the case.

There were several continuances, and Judge H. W. Bradburn, of Bowling Green, presided at the last trial, which began a week ago Wednesday. The case was taken to Marshall county from Calloway on change of venue.

Holland was sheriff of Calloway county at the time of the killing, and Keys was one of the leaders of an opposing political faction. The killing was in front of Holland's office one night, while a political meeting was being held. It was claimed Keys was eavesdropping, which precipitated a quarrel when Holland stepped outside and found him. Holland claimed Keys was advancing with a knife when he shot him. A knife was found near the scene of the killing.

The attorneys for the defense were Hon. John K. Hendrick, of Paducah; James H. Garnett, Cadiz; James Coleman and G. Wells, of Murray, and for the prosecution were Wm. Reed, Paducah; S. H. Crossland, Mayfield; J. G. Lovett, Benton, and A. Thompson, of Murray.

Has Secretary Coons a Chance to Land a Big Shoe Factory He Has Been After?

Secretary Coons of the Commercial club, has been in St. Louis for the past two days and today wired Mr. W. P. Hummel to call a meeting of the directors of the club and the bankers for tomorrow afternoon at the club's headquarters.

What Mr. Coons has to bring before the meeting is not known. He went to St. Louis, however, to see a big shoe factory that has been contemplating the erection of a factory at some point in Illinois, and it may be that he has a proposition from it to locate the plant in Paducah.

"I don't know what Mr. Coons has this time," said Mr. Hummel, "but he has evidently had a strike at his line and we may land a big fish. Whatever it is we want to meet the directors, the bankers and any of the members of the club who desire to attend the meeting."

MORE RAILROADS FOR PADUCAHANS

Is the Cry Going Up From Many Quarters Now.

Merchants and Others Enthusiastic
About Trying to Induce the L.
& N. to Come Here.

OTHER ROADS ALSO TALKED OF.

The prospects for Paducah's getting another railroad grow brighter every day.

The interviews The Sun has had this week with prominent citizens on the question have crystallized public sentiment and an effective organization to work for that end, equipped with the brains and money to carry it to a successful conclusion are the prospects of the immediate future.

The interest being taken in the question is intense, the people seeming to have, all at once, awakened to the true condition confronting Paducah, and it is being discussed everywhere.

"Yes sir I am heartily in for a new railroad to Paducah, and you can say I am in favor of offering my, or two or three, all the inducements we can to get them to come here," Mayor Yelzer said when asked for his views on the matter.

"I have read the interviews in The Sun with great interest and they have put the situation before the people just as they are. We should do all we can to induce the L. & N. to build that road, proposed from Murray to Cairo, from Paducah and we must put the proposition to them at once. We all appreciate the L. C. what it is for Paducah, and all of that, but it is imperative, almost that we have another trunk line here. I agree with Mr. Phillips that we appreciate the fact that the 'cut off' the L. C. will build from Gilbertsville to Mayfield means much to that road, and they must build it, but I also agree with him in his statement that we cannot let ourselves be 'swept up,' as he expressed it, and that the running of the through fast trains via that cut off would make of Paducah an insignificant point on the road, one that a passenger from the East, or South would never see or know anything about."

"Paducah has much to offer any new road to come to Paducah, and we should do it. The L. & N. extension to Cairo would be a great thing for the town, connecting us as has been well pointed out, with six roads at Cairo, and two at Thebes. Do this and Paducah will grow by leaps and bounds."

"I shall be glad to assist in getting terminals and a right of way into the city for the L. & N. or any road, and if the occasion arises for doing so, we should get a right of way any road can use that wants to enter the city as is done everywhere else."

"Put me down for a new road for Paducah. My shoulder will go to the wheel in any effort to secure one." Some of the wholesale men who did not care to have their expressions published, said to The Sun today that the demands for another road here were more imperative than ever before and the efforts to get the L. & N. interested by a movement of the right sort.

"The matter should be taken up by the Commercial club at once," said one gentleman today, "and the movement now so well started whipped into a dynamic organization, and we shall bring about something we have needed for years—more railroads for Paducah."

The prisoner was taken to the city hall and a warrant issued by Acting Police Judge Dave Cross charging him with being a fugitive from justice. The warrant was read and Jones agreed to return without a requisition and was turned over to the visitors who will take him back on the first train to Cairo, which will be tonight at 7 o'clock.

Little is known of Jones here, although he claims Paducah as his home. He is a man of ordinary stature with light mustache. He was poorly dressed and in Missouri was working about from farm to farm, seeming to be a "transient" as itinerant farm hands are termed.

The Missouri gentlemen with Officers Matlock and Churchill were today searching the saloons on lower Kentucky avenue and went into the Rodius place in quest of their man. They had no more than stepped into the place before Jones came in and was arrested.

BET THE MAYOR'S TICKLED TO DEATH

He Has a Chance Now to Use His Veto Axe, So Long Idle.

Reported He Will Disapprove the Police Ordinance—He Was in Good Spirits.

POLICE AFFAIRS ARE MUDDLED

The mayor was in an unusually good humor today when a Sun representative saw him. He is always in a good humor, for that matter, but today his measure was a few degrees cooler.

In the first place, the aldermen had night concluded to take steps to improve the city's electric light plant, which is the mayor's special hobby, then the supreme court has decided the cows could no longer wander, at pleasure, up and down the city's highways, into a citizen's flower garden or yard, and, as sometimes, into some of the business houses down in the heart of the city, and, too, because he had no opportunity to and may—no one knows—wield his little hatchet on the police ordinance.

"I am very glad indeed the aldermen have reached the conclusion they have on the light proposition," he said, "and think they have acted wisely. Every one knows my views on the subject, and no further comment, aside from this expression of gratitude, is necessary."

"Now, about the cows. I shall await the receipt of a copy of the supreme court's opinion in the case before doing anything. I am glad the cow is done for. We shall have to make arrangements now for a pound to enclose the stock found at large, and these details will be attended to later."

"I don't know whether or not we shall have to have an extra man to take up the stock found running at large, but, if the police force is cut as proposed, I don't see how the police can attend to them. But that, too, is a matter for the future."

"Are you going to sign the police ordinance, Mr. Mayor?" elicited the rejoinder:

"Well, you newspaper men have all the impertinence imputed to you. How do I know? It is not up to me yet, at least the ordinance has not been laid on my desk for consideration yet."

"Will you exercise that big stick you have over there instead of a hatchet and kill it?" he was asked.

"I shall only say the council and I differ on the matter," he replied.

The mayor thinks a mistake was made however in reducing the force. "Both measures are extremes," he said further, "the bill passed by the legislature, and the council ordinance. The bill calls for too many men and the city ordinance allows too few. The city ordinance allows for no substitutes, and what will be done in a case of emergency or sickness? We should have let matters stay as they were. We have 27 men, all told, and that is not too many. What will we do now with the stock now to enforce? Answer me that."

"I don't know what the police commissioners will do—appoint according to the legislature bill, or reduce the force to the number required by the city ordinance."

Police Commissioner Bonds has a copy of the bill, but would not express himself on the matter today. "We have now just about enough men," he said, and "if we are to increase to the 30, as required under the bill passed by the legislature, we shall merely keep on the present force, and give police powers to enough other city officials to be in the bounds of the law."

But, to state the thing truthfully, no one seems to know what will be done—whether the matter will cause litigation or be settled amicably.

NEGRO YOUTH HANGED.

He Assaulted a White Woman—Raid Did Not Deter Execution.

Point Bluff, Mo., March 23.—In a downpour of rain and the presence of a large crowd, Curtis Jackson, a negro youth was hanged today. Last February Jackson assaulted Mrs. Dan Norman, white, and was arrested the same night and rescued from a mob after a battle. He was tried February 20, convicted and sentenced three hours after his arraignment.

KILLED HIS SWEETHEART.

And Then Suicided—Parental Objection Responsible.

Mansfield, O., March 23.—Grace Zellner, a young woman of good family, was shot and killed in the room of her sweetheart, Roy Shanks, early today. Shanks then committed suicide and the bodies were found side by side. The parents of the girl objected to her receiving the attention of Shanks and it is thought she went to his room to tell him she would not marry him and the tragedy followed.

BOILED IN FIRE-BOX OF AN I. C. ENGINE

Frank D. Rhea Scalded While Working in "Live" Engine.

Flue Plug Loose, and Steam and Boiling Water Poured Out On Him and His Helper.

RHEA WAS SCALDED ALL OVER

Frank D. Rhea, an Illinois Central boiler maker residing at 11th and Ohio streets, was horribly and fatally scalded, and his helper, Chris Edmonds, was also badly burned by scalding water, while working in the fire box of a "live engine" yesterday afternoon in the local I. C. round house. Both were taken to the I. C. hospital, where immediate attention was given them. Today they are resting easily but Rhea's condition is precarious and complications which may result in death are liable to set in.

Rhea and his helper had been assigned to engine 850, one of the biggest type of freight engines. The big machine was in the round house for repairs to flues, and the fire had been drawn from the fire box but the engine was still "alive," full of boiling water and steam.

Rhea crawled into the big fire doors to hammer out a flue plug. His helper, Edmonds, was in the act of following him and had his head and shoulders through door when boiling water began to envelope him. He quickly withdrew and immediately a series of agonizing cries were heard from the interior of the big engine.

Edmonds was unable to understand just what had happened but knew that Rhea was being horribly scalded. He was powerless to render aid, however, but Rhea by desperate efforts managed to crawl through the hindling, scalding water to the fire doors and draw himself out. He fell limp and apparently lifeless to the floor.

The hospital corps was summoned and gave immediate attention. At the hospital it was discovered that every portion of Rhea's body had been scalded by the water except one small part of his back. The skin came off in large patches and the unfortunate boilermaker suffered excruciating agony. His helper was badly burned about the face and hands but is not in a serious condition.

Rhea stated that he had struck the flue plug with his hammer to loosen it and that the entire flue seemed to give and loosen. An examination showed that the flue came loose and the water direct from the boiler poured out with great force on him.

But for the size of the fire doors, which are unusually large on this type of engine, Rhea might have been slowly boiled to death in the fire box. Today he is reported better, and is resting as easy as might be expected. He is a married man and has a wife and child living here at 11th and Ohio Edmonds, his helper, will be able to be out in a short time but will probably have to wear bandages for several weeks.

Property Owners Notified.

The board of works has sent out nearly two hundred letters in the past few days to property holders along the streets to be improved this summer to get ready and make the necessary connections.

SPRING ANNOUNCEMENT

IT is with pardonable pride we announce today a complete showing of spring styles in Atterbury System Clothing. From the illustrations above you can draw a conception of their beauty, the design, the shape and the general contour of the garments as reproduced from living models. Last season, for the first time, we showed this superior clothing, and then, owing to its fineness, in a limited way. The immediate preference shown it by men of the most discriminating taste proved its merit—verifying the old adage that “nothing is too good for Paducah and Paducahans.” For spring the selections are most complete—single and double-breasted sacks in medium and extreme lengths; fabrics of Worsted, Imported Cheviots and Serges; shades of gray in stripes and plaids and the new ultra “twilight grays,” also the blues and blacks.

In the making of Atterbury Clothing hand work is used throughout. By its use that drape—only found in expensive merchant tailor clothing—is imparted. The absolute perfection of make and fit in Atterbury Clothing is fast overcoming the prejudice against ready-serve clothing in the minds of men accustomed to merchant tailor clothes. There's but one way to prove this to you—that's to come and try them on. The invitation is herewith extended and we will greatly appreciate your accepting it.

Daily Thought.

"Each day is an entity in itself, rounded off by the gift of sleep, it stands separate with its own opportunities and pleasures."

BOOST, DON'T KNOCK.

Paducah's era of prosperity seems to be here, and the knocker is disappearing. The slogan is "Boost, Don't Knock." This is a good battle cry, for if everyone worked in harmony, it would be an easy matter to build up a city with the natural advantages and resources of Paducah, in a remarkably short time, and with a great deal less effort than when people are found opposing every good public move.

The word "knocker," however, has won a place in the great American dictionary, and it will probably be there. It is such a significant term that the Owen County Democrat is moved to remark,—"and to remark so well that what it says is well worth giving the people of Paducah,—"as follows:

"In every community there are certain people who find it difficult or impossible to work in the line with their fellows. They may be justly accused of malicious motives, for in many respects they are frequently admirable citizens. Yet by some constitutional twist they are usually out of tune with the rest of mankind."

"Such people often do 'inecalculable harm.' They throw a damper on every enterprise. They are really to be pitied, for they are of all men generally the most miserable. Theirs, indeed, is a deplorable condition of mind, for there is no greater temporal pleasure than that afforded through the consciousness of being in step with the great mass one's fellows. To be always objecting and obstructing is certainly unfortunate for the individual."

"It must be understood that the right to justly criticize is denied; oh no! For that would mean the enduring of all manner of unjust if not rascally proceedings without protest, but it is rather to check the propensity to discourage every honest effort for advancement, improvement and development."

"It is a part of healthful self-respect to speak well of one's town and of its institutions and enterprise. We should welcome every well-behaved stranger and swing wide the doors to every new industry. The citizen bolities himself who speaks negatively of his home or of any new enterprise seeking to gain a foothold."

"Carefully analyze your motives for desiring to obstruct to make sure that you do not place yourself in the unenviable position of a knocker."

Well, the noted "police bill" has been signed by the governor. It requires second class cities to have at least thirty patrolmen, no matter how small they want or need. It

$7,000 more of the taxpayers' money a year, than required with the force as it now is. Representative Head, of McCracken county, got the bill through at the instance of the mayor and his police commissioners. It is understood, and it met with no opposition in the legislature, because Representative Head told them it was "a party measure," which is usually sufficient in a Kentucky legislature. The bill was designed solely to create several more "soft snaps" for friends of Mayor Yeiser and his administration. When this $7,000 luxury was being engineered through the legislature and everyone here knew that it was solely to put a few more of the gang on Easy Street, no voice was raised to oppose it except that of The Sun and the general council of Paducah. When the latter passed resolutions protesting against the measure, the members were informed by one of our so-called representatives in the legislature that no better argument could be offered at Frankfort for the passage of the bill, than the objections of a republican general council. So opposition was abandoned, and the graft has been saddled onto the taxpayers of Paducah. Those to blame for it, however, doubtless will be remembered by the people at some future time. Among them are the vaunted "friends of the people,"—those independent, non-partisan, fearless champions of the people's rights who have renounced silent and allowed this bill to be forced on a community of 25,000 people for the benefit of a few politicians.

American cities are not yet ready for municipal ownership although some cities are experimenting with it. At a meeting of the Ohio Gas Light Association at Cincinnati yesterday, President Donald McDonald, of Louisville, said on the question of municipal ownership: "I believe that with American cities organized as they are municipal ownership would be a great mistake, but I do not believe that it is the duty of gas men to oppose this idea to any greater extent than it is the duty of all good citizens to oppose it. My opinion is, however, that the time when the American people will be willing to embark in the manufacture of gas and create the debts necessary to do so and ratify those debts at popular elections, is as far off today as it ever was."

The people of Paducah who have long opposed cows running at large, are now in a position to protect themselves. The highest court in the state has upheld the law prohibiting the running at large of cows and other animals, and this makes the law enforceable. It may be that no effort except under compulsion, will be made to enforce it by some of the city officials. The mayor approves of the law, however, and where an officer refuses to enforce it, if such dereliction is reported to the proper authorities, or to the newspapers, which will take pleasure in exposing failures or refusals to enforce it, it will likely not be long until cows are kept off the streets.

The governor yesterday signed the bill authorizing school boards in second class cities to issue as much as $150,000 in bonds for school buildings, but the people must vote. It is understood, on the question before the bonds can be issued. This law will be a good one for Paducah, provided the people in case of necessity, would support a bond issue for new schools. The present maximum school levy hardly furnishes enough money to pay the current expenses here, and leaves little or nothing for buildings.

The board of health wants to name the sanitary officers, and so does the general council. It is likely the general public will not object to either or both naming them, so they name good ones. If some of the so-called sanitary officers of the past are to be taken as a standard, however, it will be just as well if no one names them.

The ground hog, who was doubted and maligned when he made his annual observations over six weeks ago, now seems to be getting even with a vengeance.

BILL SIGNED

Giving Second Class Cities Right to Appropriate Money for Advertising.

Among the bills signed yesterday by Governor Beckham at Frankfort, were the police bill, passed to force an increase of the Paducah police force to 30 members and the bill authorizing cities of the second class to appropriate money for advertising advantages and resources.

No. 8. The narrow-gauged man—refuses to listen to anything "out of his line." We have a respect for No. 8 if he be sincere and sticks to his line. Mining is the line of the Paducah Bituminous Coal Mining Co. and we are going to stick to it and make money for our stockholders.

ONE BILL VETOED BY THE GOVERNOR

Applied to Fifth Class Towns and Was "Loaded."

About Twenty-five Measures Remain to Be Acted On—Fight in Capital Hotel Yesterday.

OTHER LATE FRANKFORT NEWS

Frankfort, Ky., March 23.—The governor vetoed house bill 268. This bill is to authorize fifth class towns to exempt manufacturers from taxation for a period of five years. The governor regrets having to veto this bill, that it contains a provision which would nullify the provisions of the county unit local option law as to fifth class cities.

Gov. Beckham approved bills as follows:

House Bill 72—Prevent carrying on business under an assumed name.

Senate Bill 6—Changing time of holding courts in 29th judicial district.

House Bill 425—Preventing expenditure of county funds for any other purpose than set out in the levy.

House Bill 77—Fixing salary and assistants for Jefferson county quarterly court.

Senate Bill 98—Allowing school boards in second class cities to issue bonds to the amount of $150,000 to build schools.

House Bill 402—Changing a school district in Union county.

Senate Bill 11—Providing that where voting precincts are outside a town registration shall be held within the town.

House Bill 125—Providing regulations for cleaning ditches and creeks.

House Bill 61—Allowing sixth-class towns to petition circuit court to annul charter.

Senate Bill 105—Authorizing counties to build roads by taxation.

Senate Bill 29—Authorizing counties to advertise resources.

In addition to the above there were two resolutions approved, one permitting Mc. J. Davis, sheriff of Christian county, to sue the commonwealth and another reimbursing the state national bank for money advanced to the state during the Spanish-American war.

There are still 25 bills and two resolutions on the governor's table yet without approval. Another veto is not likely, though he may allow some to become laws without his signature.

Will Sign Racing Bill.

Frankfort, Ky., March 23.—While the bill creating the state racing commission has not yet been signed, it is believed that the signature of the executive will be affixed before the time limit expires.

Legislators Fought.

Frankfort, March 23.—Representative Drewry, of Louisville, and W. A. Young, of Rowan, "mixed it up" in the lobby of the Capital hotel yesterday afternoon, but were separated by bystanders before they got together. The fight followed a discussion of the rectified liquor tax bill.

May Be Rate Clerk.

Frankfort, Ky., March 23.—There is a quiet tip out here that Governor Beckham has offered the position of rate clerk, under the state railroad commission, to John E. Newman, of Bardonia. Mr. Newman is a brother of W. H. Newman of the Monon, and is a man of wide railroad experience, having been with the Louisville and Nashville, the Southern railway and the Monon for years. For some time he has been city judge at Bardonia, where he lives and has considerable interests.

Tried to Hang Himself.

Benton, Ky., March 23.—J. C. Carman, who was brought here from Calvert City Monday night and lodged in jail pending trial, attempted suicide by hanging, but because he says, the rope choked him and he could not stand the pressure, his intention of succeeding suddenly changed and he is now alive to tell the tale. Carman is 45 or 50 years of age, and has the reputation of being a tough character.

SPECIAL JUDGE

ATTORNEY D. A. CROSS PRESIDED IN POLICE COURT.

Judge Sanders is Confined in His Home With a Cold—A Short Docket This Morning.

Police Judge D. L. Sanders was ill this morning from a severe cold and threatened to get a grippe, and Attorney D. A. Cross acted as special police judge. He had a short docket and got through with it in a short time. Charles Kinchlow, colored, an I. C. brakeman running out of Fulton, Ky., was held over this morning on the charge of robbery. He is accused of robbing Ima King, colored, of $10 in Hoffman's alley on the south side two years ago. The woman claims he knocked her down and relieved her of her money by force.

The case against Edgar Reed, colored, charged with robbing Jesse Roberts, colored, was continued until the 24th.

Maggie Poyner, of the South Side, was dismissed of a charge of a breach of the peace, and recognized in the sum of $500 to keep peace among her neighbors. She was accused of loud talking and using improper language in the presence of the neighbors.

Other cases were: Frank Owen, white, drunkenness, $10 and costs; C. W. Ingram, white, breach of ordinance, continued until the 27th; Pete Ross, colored, drunkenness, $10 and costs.

Today was one of the worst days of this year on the river front, and elsewhere, for that matter. A heavy storm, a mixture of rain, sleet and snow set in early this morning, and the day was very rough and had under foot. Business in river circles was very much off color, and the market was deserted by all but the butchers.

The first boat built here was the Gov. Shelby, 90 tons capacity, in 1817. The first boat built at Jeffersonville was the United States in 1818. Her hull was towed to New Orleans, where she was finished. The machinery cost $65,000 and was built in Scotland. The boat complete cost $132,000. She was the first boat to have an engine for each wheel. She was not finished until June, 1821.—Courier-Journal.

Capt. Washington Hight, a veteran river pilot, died at Summerfield, Va., on Tuesday, aged 75 years. The deceased was widely known in marine circles, he having spent nearly all of his life on the river, piloting steamers from St. Paul to New Orleans. He spent most of his time on the upper river, and for many years had been a "falls pilot," taking steamers over the rapids at Rock Island.

He was referred to as the "Pink Varble, of the Mississippi" after Pink Varble, formerly a famous falls pilot at Louisville, Ky.

Marsh, the Winton Place prophet, of Cincinnati, says: "The storm covering the entire country on the 18th and 19th was part of the equinoctial. Warm rains will begin in a day or two, being quite heavy and general, covering a greater portion of the country. The rivers now rising and the present high stages of water at Cincinnati, and the heavy snow along the Ohio river and the mountain districts we may expect at least 60 feet of water at Cincinnati and a general flood over Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Pittsburg and headwaters of the Ohio and its tributaries. I look for floods over the West and Southwest and along the Western streams. The floods will not be confined to the Ohio river, districts none, but will prevail in different sections of the Ohio Valley, especially over Southern Indiana."

Her "texas" is the admiration of all passengers. The Georgia Lee carries a crew numbering over a half hundred and they are courteous and seem to divine a person's wants to a nicety. INSPECTING PLANT.

Prominent Gas Man Visiting Paducah in Stone & Webster's Interest.

Mr. J. E. Newt, of Fall River, Mass., is in the city today. Mr. Newt is connected with the Stone & Webster company, of Boston, and is a specialist on gas works. He is manager of the plant at Fall River, and has been out on a tour of inspection of some of Stone & Webster's plants in the south, and came to Paducah to go over the one here.

He was in conference with Manager Bleeker and Supt. Sturdevant all day, and will, after his investigation, make recommendations for any improvements he deems necessary.

The gas business of the company here is increasing very rapidly and will have to be enlarged soon. It is said, to accommodate the business, and the company has expressed itself as pursuing the policy of making care of business as the demands arise. This means the gas plant, like the street car system, will be brought up to the highest degree of efficiency.

People and Pleasant Events

Married in Salt Lake City.
Details of the Pointer-Palmer wedding have been received as follows:
The marriage of Miss Margaret Allen Pointer and Mr. Leroy A. Palmer took place at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, March 14, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Brooks Leigh Capitol Hill, Salt Lake City, Utah. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Charles E. Perkins, of St. Paul's Episcopal church. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Phil Pointer, and the bridegroom by his brother, Eugene H. Palmer. Master Philip Pointer Leigh was the ring bearer. The bride was given away by her mother, Mrs. Sallie Roberts Pointer. Only a few intimate friends of the family were present. Mr. and Mrs. Palmer left after the ceremony for Grand Rapids, Mich., where they will make their home. The bride has visited in Paducah, and has many friends here.

Pleasant Evening.

Rev. J. W. Blackard, D. D., president of the Paducah district, delivered a most entertaining lecture last evening at the Broadway Methodist church, entitled "A Trip to Europe." It was given under the auspices of the ladies of the three Methodist churches, Broadway, Trimble St. and Third St., for the benefit of the district parsonage fund, and was heard by a large and interested audience.
Dr. Blackard is an agreeable speaker and his lecture was the narration of a number of pleasant, humorous, and interesting features encountered during a trip to Europe to attend the Ecumenical Methodist Conference in London. He carried his audience with him to the various cities and countries visited en route, and they greatly enjoyed his "point of view."
Mr. Robert Scott sang with his customary charm and as always delighted his hearers.

Entertainment At High School.

Mr. Richard Scott sang a solo at the opening exercises of the High school this morning. It was given with fine effect and he was made to respond to several encores.
Mr. Scott is one of the most popular of our amateur singers and his name on any program of local talent is always a guarantee of pleasure.
The singing and speech features of the opening exercises were recently inaugurated and had proved very popular. It seems to lend interest to the schools in other work. One or two opening exercises, with outside features, are held every week. Sometimes it is a speech and sometimes a song. Often the High school orchestra plays a few selections.

Enjoyable Surprise Party.

Master Eugene Kutterjohn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Kutterjohn, was given a pleasant surprise party last evening at his home 1117 South 11th street, by a number of his young friends in honor of his 12th birthday. The evening was most enjoyably spent with games, and delightful refreshments were served.

Paducah Weds in Arkansas.

Jaller James Baker has received news of the marriage of his youngest brother, Mr. Gus Baker, to Miss Madge Griffin, of Tontozza, Ark., on Tuesday the 14th. The marriage was announced several weeks ago but no date set for it. The groom had been injured by an accident on his stock farm and waiting until he recovered. They will reside in Tontozza where Mr. Baker is interested in the stock raising business.

Married in Cairo.

John Willingham, a railroad engineer of Paducah, Ky., and Miss Viva Willingham, of Wingo, Ky., were married Wednesday night at 10 o'clock at the Cairo Baptist church. Rev. S. P. Mahoney, officiating. The couple although of the same names, are not related.—Cairo Bulletin.

Mr. G. M. McGrew of Bayou Mills, Livingston county, was in the city yesterday a guest of his daughter, Mrs. Gus Edwards. He was on his way to attend the farmers' institute at Hopkinsville. He is an enthusiastic institute man, and attends meetings all over the state.

Mr. E. A. Laughlin, of the Great Northern Hotel, Chicago, is in the city on a brief visit. He is one of the Chicago men now interested in the Palmer house here.

Miss Lou Gasky, of South Fourth is improving from a several days' illness.
Mrs. James Baker is improving from her attack of erysipelas.

DR. CHEEK'S REMAINS ARRIVE FROM TEXAS

Funeral at 10 a. m. Tomorrow at First Baptist Church.

Burial in Paducah at Oak Grove Cemetery, instead of Madisonville.

RESOLUTIONS OF MINISTERS.

The remains of the late Rev. John S. Cheek, pastor of the First Baptist church, arrived in the city over the Illinois Central this afternoon at 12:20 o'clock from Waco, Texas, where he died Wednesday night from pneumonia, and were taken to the Baptist parsonage on North Fifth street.

Mrs. Cheek accompanied the body, and has stood the trip fairly well. It was intended to hold the funeral this afternoon, but it was decided after consulting the family to hold it tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at the First Baptist church, services by Rev. George Cates and Rev. Gordon Hill, of Louisville.

The burial will be in Paducah, at Oak Grove cemetery, instead of at Madisonville, as at first announced.

Ministers' Resolutions.

The Ministerial Association, at a called meeting yesterday afternoon, adopted the following:

Having learned of the death of the Rev. J. S. Cheek, pastor of the First Baptist church of this city, which sad event occurred in Waco, Tex., on the night of March 21, 1906.

We, the pastors of the city of Paducah, desire to express in some measure our feeling of sorrow and loss occasioned by the death of our associate and brother.

Mr. Cheek was especially endowed of God and equipped by careful study for the high and responsible place to which he had been called. He went into his pulpit and among his people as a man of one work—the winning of men from sin to righteousness. The influence of his short ministry in this city will abide for good among all classes. For the Master's cause he was the servant of all. He was at home alike among the rich and the poor, the learned and the unlearned, loving the souls of all men. With a kind heart and a steady hand he did the work of a preacher.

Resolved, First, That we thank the Great Giver of all good for the splendid service that this man of God was able in his life to perform, and for the stream of influence that will continue to flow forth and bless him though he has gone on, and over;

Resolved, Second, That we sorrow over his untimely death. Even before he had reached the prime of his usefulness he passed away, but we rejoice that our God causes all things to work for good to them who love him;

Resolved, Third, That we tender to his dear family, and church, our tenderest sympathy and service in their time of sorrow and loss, and commend them to the God whom they love and serve;

Resolved, Fourth, That we will attend the funeral in a body, and that in the services the Rev. Peter Fields will represent us.

The above paper was adopted at a call meeting of the Ministerial Association of the city on March 22, the following ministers being present:

THOS. J. NEWELL,
W. E. CAVE,
D. C. WRIGHT,
W. W. ARMSTRONG,
B. W. BASS,
WM. HOUQUIN,
PETER FIELDS,
J. W. BLACKARD,
T. J. OWEN.

Mr. Quincy Wallace, secretary and treasurer of the joint protective board of the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen, is still in Chicago attending a meeting of the committee and has written relatives that he may not be able to return before Sunday.

Miss Lou Lasker, who has been very ill at her home on South Fourth street, is improving.

The last will and testament of the late Phil Ashoff, the tailor, was filed for probate yesterday afternoon in county court.

He leaves all to his sister, Miss Katie Ashoff. His property consists of a $2,000 life insurance policy and a house and lot on South Fourth St., where he lived. All personal and other effects are also bequeathed to her, no itemized statement being made of them. He charged his sister with the care of his four children who are to receive equal parts of the estate, whatever is remaining of it, when they attain their majority. The will is dated February 12, 1901 and was witnessed by Frank Watson and Geo. Grief.

Relatives Took Charge.

Jim Wilson, colored, who was held in the city jail yesterday for lunacy, has been turned over to his relatives. It is thought he has a bad case of delirium tremens and will be all right when the attack wears off. The authorities at first intended trying him for lunacy but reconsidered on request of his relatives who think they can straighten him out.

Suits Filed Today.

Today is the last day for filing suits for the coming civil term of McCracken circuit court and attorneys are preparing and filing a number of them. Yesterday half a dozen were filed and this morning several more followed.

Mary They filed suit against T. B. Chaik and M. L. Cinley for $179 alleged to be due on account.

County Court Room Repairs.

The county court room was this morning covered with a fine pattern of linoleum and is now one of the prettiest court rooms imaginable. All the wood work has been revarnished and grained, the walls papered and repairs in general made. It is as nice in appearance as the circuit court room.

CITY PROSECUTOR

Expects Little to Be Left of the License Ordinance.

Attorney Tom Harrison, prosecutor in police court, thinks that when the merchants and attorneys get through with the new license ordinance there will not be enough left to tell what it was intended for.

Attorney Harrison brought up the decision of Police Judge D. L. Sanders last night for the board to act as it saw fit, but no action was taken. The city can appeal from the police judge's decision or let it remain as it is. If no appeal is taken the wholesale merchants may do business under that license and also engage in "incidental sales" such as are considered legitimate parts of the brokers' or commission merchants' business for which a separate license is provided.

"Heretofore," Mr. Harrison explained, "the merchants did not complain, but now there seems to be a tendency to find fault with the ordinance, and 'technical' attorneys are hard fellows to down. They will take an ordinance and pick it to pieces especially when it is gotten up in the shape of ordinances generally are by municipal boards. They are prepared in a hurry and many things of importance are overlooked. There are many other faults found with the present license ordinance, and the one part knocked out may be only a starter."

The Breath of Life.

It's a significant fact that the strongest animal of its size, the gorilla, also has the largest lungs. Powerful lungs means powerful creatures. How to keep the breathing organs right should be man's chiefest study. Like thousands of others, Mrs. Ora Stephens, of Port Williams, O., has learned how to do this. She writes: "Three bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery stopped my cough of two years and cured me of what my friends thought consumption. O, it's grand for throat and lung troubles." Guaranteed by W. MORE TALK

About Downtown Ticket Office and Who Will Be in Charge.

There is a great deal of talk in railroad circles about the I. C. establishing the downtown ticket office and who will be placed in charge.

While nothing official has been given out to the press, it is stated on reliable authority that Agent John Donovan intends to transfer Mr. George Wardfield from the depot ticket office to the down town office and give the depot agency to Mr. Roy N. Praythor, who is now day operator and assistant. "Mr. Praythor was formerly combination night ticket agent and operator and is thoroughly competent to fill the place. It is said that Operator James, of the south yard, will be transferred to the day operator position at the depot.

CHAPTER V.

UP SKIPLAP CANYON

The meal was ending in smoke, the women, excepting Miss Milbrey, having lighted cigarettes with the men. The talk had grown less truculently sectional. The Angstead twins told of their late fishing trip to Lake St. John for salmon, of projected tours to British Columbia for mountain sheep, and to Manitoba for elk and moose.

Mr. Milbrey described with minute and loving particularity the preparation of acufs de Falsan, avec bourré au champagne.

Mrs. Milbrey related an anecdote of New York society, not much in itself, but which permitted the disclosure that she habitually addressed by their first names three of the foremost society leaders, and that each of these personages adopted a like familiarity toward her.

Mrs. Dreimer declared that she meant to have Uncle Peter Bines at one of her evenings the very first time he should come to New York, and that if he didn't let her know of his coming she would be offended.

Oldaker related an incident of the hall given to the prince of Wales, traveling as Baron Renfrew, on the evening of October 12, 1860, in which his father had figured briefly before the royal guest to the abiding credit of American tact and gentility.

Shepher was amused until he became sleepy, whereupon he extended the freedom of his castle to his guests and retired to his stateroom.

Uncle Peter took a final shot at Oldaker. He was observed to be laughing, and inquiry brought this:

"I just couldn't help saucerin' over his idea of God's own country. He thinks God's own country is a little strip of an island with a row of well-fed folks up and down the middle, and a lot of hungry folks on each side. Mebbe he's right. I'll be bound, it needs the love of God. But if it is his own country, it don't make him any connosor of countries with me. I'll tell you that."

Oldaker smiled at this assault, the well-bred, tolerant smile that loyal New Yorkers reserve for all such harbaric belittling of their empire. Then he politely asked Uncle Peter to show Mrs. Dreimer and himself through the stamp mill.

At Percival's suggestion of a walk, Miss Milbrey was delighted. After an inspection of the Bines car, in which Oldaker declared he would be willing to live forever, if it could be anchored firmly in Madison square, the party separated.

Out into the clear air, already cooling under the slanting rays of the sun, the young man and the girl went together. Behind them lay the one street of the little mining camp, with its wooden shanties on either side of the railroad track. Down this street Uncle Peter had gone, leading his charges toward the busy anti-hill on the mountain-side. Ahead the track wound up the canyon, cunningly following the tortuous course of the little river to be sure of practicable grades. On the farther side of the river a mountain road paralleled the railway. Up this road the two went, followed by a playful admittance from Mrs. Milbrey: "Honeybun, Mr. Bines, I place my child in your keeping."

Percival waxed conscientious about his charge and insisted at once upon being assured that Miss Milbrey would be warm enough with the scarlet golf-cape about her shoulders; that she was used to walking long distances; that her boots were stoutly soled; and that she didn't mind the sun in her faces. The girl laughed at him.

"Your vest is the breathingest place," she said, as they crossed a foot bridge over the noisy little stream and turned up the road. "I don't believe I ever drew a full breath until I came to these altitudes."

"One has to breathe more air here—there's less oxygen in it, and you must breathe more to get your share, and so after awhile one becomes robust. Your cheeks are already glowing, and we've hardly started. There, now, there are your colors, see—"

Along the edge of the green pinea and spruce were lavender asters. A little way in the woods they could see the blue columbines and the mountain phlox, pink and red.

"There are your eyes and your cheeks."

"What a dangerous character you'd be if you were sent to match silk!"

On the dry barren slopes of gravel across the river, full in the sun's glare, grew the Spanish bayonet, with its spikes of creamy white flowers.

"There I am, more nearly," she pointed to them; "they're ever so much nearer my disposition. But about this air; it must make men work hard, or for what comes easier here in our country, so that they may become able to do more—more capable. I am thinking of your grandfather. You don't know how much I admire him. He is so stanch and strong and fresh. There's more fire in him now than in my father or Launton Oldaker, and I dare say he's a score of years older than either of them. I don't think you quite appreciate what a great old fellow he is."

"I admire Uncle Peter much more, I'm sure, than he admires me. He's afraid I'm not strong enough to admire that eastern climate of yours—social and moral."

"I suppose it's natural for you to wish to go. You'd be bored here, wouldn't you? You couldn't stay in these mountains and be such a man as your grandfather. And yet there ought to be so much to do here; it's all so fresh and roomy and jolly. Really, I've grown enthusiastic about it."

"Ah, but think of what there is in the east—and you are there. To think that for six months I've treasured every little memory of you—such a funny little lot as they were—to think that this morning I awoke thinking of you, yet hardly hoping ever to see you, and to think that for half the night we had ridden so near each other in sleep, and there was no sign or signal or good omen. And then to think you should burst upon me like some new sunrise that the stupid astronomers hadn't predicted."

"You see," he went on, after a moment, "I don't ask what you think of me. You couldn't think anything much as yet, but there's something about this whole affair, our meeting and all, that makes me think it's going to be symmetrical in the end. I know it won't end here. I'll tell you one way western men learn. They learn not to be afraid to want things out of their reach, and they believe devoutly—because they've proved it so often—that if you want a thing hard enough and keep wanting it, nothing can keep it away from you."

A bell had been tinkling nearer and nearer on the road ahead. Now a heavy wagon, filled with sacks of ore, came into view, drawn by four mules.

As they stood aside to let it pass he scanned her face for any sign it might show, but he could see no more than a look of interest for the brawny driver of the wagon, shouting musically to his straining team.

"You are rather inscrutable," he said, as they resumed the road.

She turned and smiled into his eyes with utter frankness.

"At least you must be sure that I like you; that I am very friendly; that I want to know you better, and I want you to know me better. You don't know me at all, you know. You westerners have another way of accepting people too readily. It may work no harm among yourselves, but perhaps easterners are a bit more peridious. Sometimes, now, a very eastern person doesn't even accept herself—himself—very trustfully; she—he—finds it so hard to get acquainted with himself."

The young man provided one of those silences of which a few discerning men are instinctively capable and for which women thank them.

"This road," she said, after a little time of rapid walking, "leads right up to the end of the world, doesn't it?"

It Takes Nerve

Everything depends upon your nerves. It is nerve force that causes the brain to direct the motion of your body; it is nerve force that causes your heart to pulsate, and send the blood through your veins; it is nerve force that causes your stomach to digest food, your kidneys to filter the blood, and the liver to secrete bile.

In fact, nerve force is the power that runs your body, so if you feel worn-out, irritable, nervous, cannot sleep, or eat well, have pain or misery anywhere, your nerves are weak, and your system run-down. To restore this vitality take Dr. Miles' Nerve which will strengthen and build up the nerves. You cannot be healthy without strong nerves.

"For eighteen years Dr. Miles' Nerve and Anti-Pain Pills have been my close companions. Early in married life, while raising children, my nerves became all worn-out—could not sleep; had no appetite; indigestion very bad, and had such awful dizzy spells. Then I began using Dr. Miles' Nerve, and in once I began to improve, and soon found myself in perfect health."

MRS. S. L. YOUNG, 324 Pittsburg St., New Castle, Pa. Dr. Miles' Nerve is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money.

OPEN PUBLISHERY THE BEST

GURANTY OF MERIT.

When the maker of a medicine, sold through druggists for family use, takes his patients fully into his confidence by frankly and fearlessly publishing broadcast as well as on its bottle wrappers, a full list of all its ingredients in plain English, this action on his part is the best possible evidence that he is not afraid to have the search light of investigation turned full upon his formula and that it will bear the fullest scrutiny and the most thorough investigation.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for the cure of the weaknesses, periodical pains and functional derangements of the organs distinctly feminine, is the only medicine put up for sale through druggists for woman's special use, the maker of which is not afraid to take his patients into his full confidence by such open and honest publicity.

A glance at the published ingredients on each bottle wrapper, will show that it is made wholly from native, American, medicinal roots, that it contains no poisonous or habit-forming drugs, no narcotics and no alcohol—purely refined glycerine, of proper strength, being used instead of the commonly employed alcohol, both for extracting and preserving the active medicinal properties found in the roots of the American forest plants employed. It is the only medicine for women's peculiar diseases, sold by druggists, that does not contain a large percentage of alcohol, which is in the long run so harmful to woman's delicate, nervous system. Now, glycerine is perfectly harmless, and serves a valuable purpose by possessing intrinsic value all its own, and besides it enhances the curative effect of the other ingredients entering into the "Favorite Prescription."

Some of the ablest medical writers and teachers endorse these views and praise all the several ingredients of which "Favorite Prescription" is composed—recommending them for the cure of the very same diseases for which this world-famous medicine is advised. No other medicine for women has any such professional endorsement—worth more than any number of ordinary testimonials. If interested, send name and address to Dr. H. W. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for his little book of extracts from the works of eminent medical writers and teachers, endorsing the several ingredients and telling just what Dr. Pierce's medicine are made of. It's free for the asking.

See, it ends squarely in the sun. They stopped where the turn had opened to the west a long vista of gray and purple hills far and high. They stood on a ridge of broken quartz and gneiss, thrown up in a bygone age. To their left a few dwarf Scotch firs threw shadows back toward the town. The ball of red fire in the west was half below the rim of the distant peak.

"I shall look forward to seeing you—and your mother and sister?—in New York," she said, when they parted, "and I am sure I shall have more to say when we're better known to each other."

"If you were the one woman before, if the thought of you was more than the substance of any other to me—you must know how it will be now, when the dream has come true. It's no small thing for your best dream to come true."

"Dear me! haven't we been sentimental and philosophic? I'm never like this at home, I assure you. I've really been thoughtful."

From up the canyon came the sound of a puffing locomotive that presently steamed by them with its three dingy little coaches, and, after a stop for water and the throwing of a switch, pushed back to connect with the Shepherd car.

The others of the party crowded out on to the rear platform as Percival helped Miss Milbrey up the steps. Uncle Peter had evidently been chatting with Shepher, for as they came to the old man was saying: "Get action! is my motto. Do things. Don't fritter. Be something and be it good and hard. Get action early and often."

Shepher nodded and smiled. "But men like us are apt to be unreasonable with the young. We expect them to have their own vigor and our wisdom, and the infirmities of neither."

The good-bys were hastily said, and the little train rattled down the canyon. Miss Milbrey stood in the door of the car, and Percival watched her while the glistering rails that seemed to be pushing her away narrowed in perspective. She stood motionless and inscrutable to the last, but still looking steadily toward him—almost wistfully, it seemed to him once.

"Well," he said, cheerfully, to Uncle Peter.

"You know, son, I don't like to fuss, but except one or two of them folks I'd sooner live in the middle kittle of hell than in the place that turns 'em out. They rile me—that talk about 'people in the humbler walks of life.' Of course I am humble, but then, son, if you come right down to it, as the feller said, I ain't no damned humble!"

(Original.)

In the palmy colonial days of Virginia there bloomed on one of the James river plantations—the manor house stands to this day—a rose that was coveted by all the young men in the colony. Katherine MacKenzie, or "Breakneck Kate," as she was called, was the perfection of face and form, a daredevil rider, a splendid shot with the rifle—in short, she was the beau ideal girl of the middle of the eighteenth century in Virginia.

Two young planters distanced all other suitors in the race for her hand. Sidney Pryor and Homer Lane had been elms at William and Mary college, were both members of the house of burgesses, and each was in possession of a fine plantation. Kate MacKenzie admitted that she had determined to accept one of them, but which one she was the only being who knew. Some said it was the intellectual Homer Lane; others the fox hunting Pryor. Still others declared that since they were such friends it would be a pity for the "belle of the James" to accept either.

When the young men discovered that they were rivals, if there was antagonism between them it was buried within the depths of their hearts, where no one could know of it. Each took especial pains to conceal any animosity from Kate MacKenzie. Naturally she was piqued that neither showed jealousy of the other. In vain she favored one, then the other. They were too loyal to each other to reveal, if they felt it, what she desired to call forth.

One afternoon the rivals met at the MacKenzie manor house and together made a request of Kate that she would decide between them. It happened that the spokesman for the two was the man to be rejected. This ruffled Kate who resented that she would make both men show jealousy, and she had already conceived a plan for doing so. She told them that she would decide between them at a ball which marked the close of the hunting season to come off in a week from that evening. If Pryor was her choice, she would wear a red rose; if Lane was favored, a yellow one.

During the remaining days of the season the two suitors while out with hunting parties, of which Kate MacKenzie was always the most prominent figure, showed for each other the utmost friendliness. No one knew surely whether it was assumed or real. The probability is that both being high minded, honorable men, really believed that there was no rancor in their hearts. They had yet to learn what a woman in such an ense can accomplish.

On the night of the ball Kate purposely delayed her coming. For this she had two reasons. She wished by suspense to work on her suitors' feelings and to arrive when dancing was going on, so that she might have a better chance to meet them separately.

When she left the robing room and entered the ballroom on her father's arm she had a red and a yellow rose in her hand. Seeing Pryor coming toward her, she slipped the red rose into her corsage.

He came up without attempting to conceal his delight, but Kate went on to salute the hostess. Scarcely had she turned from Pryor when she saw Lane standing with his back to her. Taking the red rose from her corsage, she slipped the yellow one into its place; then, making a detour, she passed before him. After this she was surrounded with convulsions, and each of the two rivals, thinking he had been chosen, ungraciously left her to others.

Soon after Kate's entrance both Pryor and Lane met on the veranda, where each had gone to enjoy his own happy thoughts.

"Honor, dear fellow," said Pryor, "my happiness is marred by your disappointment."

"You mean that your disappointment is deepened by my happiness. The rose was yellow."

That which had been smoldering within both of them now began to come out, at first slowly, then by leaps. Each believed the other was intent on not acquiescing in the decision. Kate was looking for them to come to her for an explanation, when she would enjoy their discomfiture and rejoice in having made them show their feelings. But they did not come. One, two, three hours passed, and neither did they approach her, nor did either of them appear again in the ballroom.

Becoming worried, Kate asked her attendant to walk about with her, hoping to see one or both of her lovers. A servant near the door told her that both the gentlemen had gone and that two others had gone with them.

Kate's heart stood still. Sinking on a built lounge, she asked her attendant to call her father, and when he came the coach was called, and father and daughter drove away together.

The next morning the peninsula was startled at the news that the two friends and rivals, Sidney Pryor and Homer Lane, had fought a duel the night before and both had been killed.

The rivals were buried side by side. His came about no one outside of their respective families knew, though it was suspected that it came of a request from the heartbroken woman who had set them at enmity. She never had a lover again and never was seen at a hunt or a ball. She lived to be an old woman, and to the day of her death she made frequent pilgrimages to the graves of her two suitors. She was often watched by curious people to discover which of the two men she had loved. But they were never successful. She carried her secret with her to her own grave.

RAPID GROWTH

MERGENTHALER-HORTON BASKET FACTORY TRIPLES.

Next Week Over One Million Will Be Turned Out By the Factory.

When a concern triples its production in a year's time, it is evidently growing some, to use a slang phrase that is very expressive.

The Mergenthaler-Horton Basket company has nearly accomplished this feat, as a glance at the statement of its production for three weeks last March in comparison with the same three weeks this month will bear testimony.

In 1905, the production was as follows:

Week of March 4, 399,000 baskets.

Week of March 11, 348,000 baskets.

Week of March 18, 328,000 baskets.

In 1906, it was:

Week of March 2, 923,300.

Week of March 10, 879,100.

Week of March 17, 936,400.

"We are getting things to humming in great shape," said General Manager John L. Myers, of the company, to a Sun representative today, "and next week we think we shall turn out 1,200,000 baskets."

This concern is one of Paducah's greatest industries, but is hardly appreciated as such merely because the people have not investigated it. It has a roll of over two hundred employees, and pays out in wages $1,600 a week. It is in a very prosperous condition with its books full of orders, and the promise for the future are for continued great growth.

Gives Health, Vigor and Tone.

Horhine is a boon for sufferers from anemia. By its use the blood is quickly regenerated and the color becomes normal. The drooping strength is revived. The languor is diminished. Health, vigor and tone predominate. New life and happy activity results. Mrs. Belle H. Shriel, Middlesborough, Ill., writes, I have been troubled with liver complaint and poor blood, and have found nothing to benefit me like Horhine. I hope never to be without it. I have wished that I had known of it in my husband's life time." 50c. Sold by Alvey & List.

The Red Men will hold their regular meeting this evening at Red Men's hall, and it promises to be one of the largest and most enjoyable in the history of the order. Visitors are expected from several neighboring tribes, and after the business of the tribe, which will include a vote on the local lodge's attitude on the proposed Red Men's Widows' and Orphans' Home, a banquet will be served. The hall has been attractively decorated.

A committee to meet the trains and escort the visitors into the city was last night appointed as follows: L. L. Bebout, Al Foreman, D. A. Cross, Robert Richardson, Clarence Householder and Eugene Graves.

Death in Livingston.

Wednesday afternoon of last week, Mr. Wm. A. Chippis, one of the best citizens of the county, died very suddenly. He was about 82 years of age, and for many years a member of Blooming Grove church. The remains were buried at the Bluff Friday, having waited for the arrival of a son, Dr. H. D. Chippis, of Corinth, Miss., who had been notified by telegraph.

Mr. Chippis was apparently as well, a few minutes before his death, as he had been for many months, and left the house, and not coming back as soon as expected, Mrs. Chippis instituted a search which resulted in finding her husband almost in a dying condition, and before any of the nearest neighbors could arrive he was dead.

He leaves four sons and two daughters, besides a wife and many friends to mourn his loss. The children are: Mrs. K. C. Adams and Mrs. W. H. Wood, of Bayou, W. E. Chippis and John Chippis, composing the firm of Chippis Bros., Dr. J. E. Chippis, of Birdsville, and Dr. H. D. Chippis, of Corinth, Miss.—Smithland Banner.

Turtle 80 Years Old Will Be Brought By On One of the Lee Line Boats in May

One of the passengers of the Georgia Lee, which passed up this week for Cincinnati, was John Mathis, owner and manager of the Magnolia stock farm on the banks of the Mississippi river a short distance above Reelfoot, Tenn. Mr. Mathis was in charge of a herd of 300 cattle en route to the Cincinnati market and incidentally going to Cincinnati to arrange for the shipping of a big 80-year-old turtle he has to the Coney Island Amusement company at Cincinnati.

The turtle, Mr. Mathis says, has passed the winter in a sunny hole, sure on the east side of Magnolia farm and looks as young as when it was 50 years old, despite the fact that the animal has lived over 80 years.

The big curiosity now weighs 200 pounds and easily carries two children in a saddle placed on its capacious back. It has much longer legs than an ordinary turtle and walks with its shell elevated quite a distance from the ground much like the walk of a dog. Mr. Mathis says its head much resembles that of a sheep and it is a curiosity in many ways. The curious animal was captured by one of his ancestors near Reelfoot lake in 1826 and has been on the old Mathis homestead ever since, growing in size with each succeeding year from the size of a silver dollar in 1826 to a width across of three feet at the present. It is one of the largest and the oldest fresh water turtle known. It will be a big drawing card when placed in the pool at Coney Island and hundreds of thousands of pleasure seekers will gaze on its venerable shell and little boys and girls will rush to take a ride on its back.

The turtle will be a dead end passenger on one of the Lee boats early in May when the summer parks are opening their gates to the coast city-confined thousands. When the turtle is due to pass here the fact will be announced in The Sun and many people will be given an opportunity to see the curious animal.

THE COW ORDINANCE MUST BE ENFORCED

Court of Appeals Holds the Paducah Measure Valid.

Decision Comes in Good Time, and Many Will Now Prepare for Flowers.

MANDATE IS EXPECTED SOON.

The town cow is now a goner. She will soon be unable to longer devastate lawns and yards and reign supreme in the streets.

The court of appeals declared valid the cow ordinance passed last year in Paducah, and decided unconstitutional by Police Judge Sanders.

The mandate will arrive in a few days, and when it does, the ordinance will have to be enforced and every cow found on the streets cannot only be impounded and sold, but the owner can be fined if it is shown that he was to blame for the animal's being at large.

The dispatch from Frankfort relative to the appellate court's action is as follows:

"The court, by Judge O'Rear, reversed the McCracken circuit court in City of Paducah vs. S. P. Bagdale. This action was instituted to test the validity of a city ordinance prohibiting the running at large of animals. The lower court held the ordinance invalid. This court reverses, holding the ordinance within the scope of a municipal council and is valid."

This makes it unnecessary to enact a new cow ordinance, which had been talked of. It is a great victory for City Prosecuting Attorney Thos. Harrison, who insisted on the case being appealed, after the city lost it, and succeeded in persuading the general council to allow the case to be decided by the appellate court when it was recently suggested that the appeal be dismissed and a new ordinance drafted and passed. It is also a victory for Hon. E. W. Bagby, who drafted the ordinance and has insisted all along that it was valid.

The cow ordinance was taken direct to the court of appeals from the police court. It is said that it would also have been sustained by circuit court had it been taken there, but a great deal of time was saved by taking it direct to the highest court.

The decision comes in good time to enable people to prepare their flower beds and take down fences.

If cows annoy the people of Paducah after the mandate of the court of appeals arrives it will be their own fault, for they can take up, or have taken up, every cow at large, and have it sold if not redeemed, and in addition have the owner fined.

STREET REFUSED.

Board of Works Will Not Accept 12th Street Improvement.

John C. Blackledge and James E. Wilhelm, of the board of public works, yesterday afternoon made an inspection of North 12th street from Salem avenue to the Calumet road, and decided that it was not good enough to be accepted as a street, and rejected it until Contractor E. C. Terrell has placed more gravel on it.

The street is through the Rottger farm, and was improved for the extension of the street car line. It is now desired to turn it over to the city as a thoroughfare, but the contractor will have to put on more gravel before the city accepts it.

VERY MYSTERIOUS

Was the Death of Engineer Butler—Cause Still Undiscovered.

Late advice from Louisville relative to the death of Engineer Hiram C. Butler, who was killed near Brashear Station, on the Louisville division of the I. C. several days ago while running his engine, threw no light on the cause of death.

The fireman, Wm. Herl, a new man on the division, stated that they were nearing the station and were looking out for the block signal to see if they might get into the block. The rules require four blasts before entering a block to call the operator's attention to "get the board." Butler was leaning out of his cab window and it was snowing and very dark. He blew only one half blast. Herl went over to see what was the matter and found Butler limp and unconscious. His head crushed in. The I. C. officials are investigating the cause. The report that a station sign which had been loosened by rains and leaning over struck the engineer, is an erroneous notion, as no such station sign has been found. At last accounts it had not been discovered what caused the engineer's death.
